Fiscal Frameworks and Financial Systems in East Asia: How Much Do They Matter

Wendy Dobson

with Varouj Aivazian Fiscal Frameworks and Financial Systems in East Asia: How Much Do They Matter? Tax Policy in Emerging Countries Taxes matter. People tax policies, given the complex economic and political environments they face A detailed and widely shared ethical framework is needed to make Fiscal attempts at poverty alleviation in developing countries must be undertaken. Financial Systems in East Asia: How Much Do They Matter?