George W. Alexander and Castle Thunder: A Confederate Prison and Its Commandant

Frances Harding Casstevens

Castle Thunder, a Confederate prison for political prisoners and deserters. Castle In its four-year run, the Castle had three commandants: Captain George W. Alexander opened the prison and oversaw the facility with a George W. Alexander and Castle Thunder: A Confederate Prison Posts about Castle Thunder.

The prison's most notorious commandant was Captain George W. Alexander. While the Confederates did not know he was a spy, his circumstances were