VICTORIA: A Mechanistic Model Of Radionuclide Behavior In The Reactor Coolant System Under Severe Accident Conditions

T. J Heames U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission Sandia National Laboratories
Reactor Coolant System Under Severe Accident Conditions, Alion Science and Technology - RADTRAD

Homepage Download full text VICTORIA: a mechanistic model of radionuclide behavior in the reactor coolant system under severe accident conditions. VICTORIA: a mechanistic model of radionuclide behavior in the. Mar 30, 2012. physics within the reactor coolant system during a severe accident. VICTORIA analyses VICTORIA: A Mechanistic Model of Radionuclide Behavior in the Reactor Coolant. System under Severe Accident Conditions. VICTORIA: A mechanistic model of radionuclide behavior in. - OSTI. Reactor Piping under Severe Accidents fission products aerosol behavior in reactor coolant sys- tem during Test section of WAVE4 Wide range Aerosol model defined based on the typical severe accident conditions. VICTORIA A mechanistic model of radionuclide behavior in the reactor coolant system under